Social Justice Advocate

Texas Tech University – University Student Housing – Residence Life

General Description

University Student Housing promotes each student’s learning experience by creating safe, supportive learning environments for academic and personal success. The Social Justice Advocate (SJA) is a student employed by University Student Housing as a member of the Residence Life Staff Team. The SJA works with the Residence Life Professional Staff in establishing a positive living and learning environment for the students of Texas Tech University in their assigned set of complexes. The SJA’s immediate supervisor is the Manager for Social Justice Education and Community Outreach.

Social Justice Advocates (SJAs) demonstrate leadership and advocacy by promoting advancement and development of diversity, multiculturalism, social identity development and social justice through diverse programming, educational interactions, training, community development, and educational dialogues within assigned residential complexes. SJAs engage residents to support student transition into the diverse university environment, provide information about campus resources, and give residents a sense of belonging within the Texas Tech community. By promoting social justice themes and education within TTU Residence Halls, SJAs will have the opportunity to create inclusive environments and promote student personal growth.

Throughout the selection and training process, successful SJA candidates will demonstrate a willingness to learn concepts related to multiculturalism and social identity development theory, creation of educational programming for residents, and an interest in social justice advocacy within the residence halls. Additionally, effective communication skills, leadership potential, appreciation for differing viewpoints, willingness to accept responsibilities, and a sincere interest in working with students and colleagues are critical skills for this position.

Texas Tech University and University Student Housing are committed to the total development of the resident within an inclusive community through student government, programming, residence hall standards, and supportive learning environments within the residence halls.
